PRESS RELEASE

Celebrate Manta Ray Migration in style at Milaidhoo Island Maldives

Milaidhoo Island Maldives is situated in the stunning Baa Atoll, in the perfect location to spot magnificent manta rays year-round. However, guests visiting between June and November are in for a treat, as their trip will coincide with manta ray season, and to celebrate, Milaidhoo is offering a 25% discount off stays between June – 1st September 2019.

The season will begin in May, with mantas (Manta alfredi) migrating, in their hundreds, to the atoll's plankton-rich waters and guests at Milaidhoo Island Maldives are perfectly positioned for the ultimate manta ray viewing experience. Home to a spectacular house-reef and being only 12-minutes by speedboat from Hanifaru Bay, known as the biggest manta feeding station in the world, guests are invited to see, swim and snorkel with the ocean's gentle giants, who feed on nothing bigger than microscopic plankton.

Milaidhoo will welcome the seasonal visitors with excursions to Hanifaru Bay, coordinated with the Hanifaru Bay park rangers, who are experts in ensuring guests enjoy the most rewarding sighting opportunities. Additionally, Milaidhoo's resident Marine Biologist will teach them all about the fascinating creatures of the sea. For those hoping to get even more up close and personal, the team at the Ocean Stories Aquatic Centre at Milaidhoo have identified several secret diving spots, outside of the marine reserve, where divers can enjoy the most private and intimate manta experiences.
